

RUGGED. STRONG. STEEL.

The COBRA® PRO STYLE – now also available as steel version.

It not only looks almost like a COBRA® PRO STYLE, it also has the same reliable and safe functionality. The only noticeable difference is the weight of the buckle, because the COBRA® PRO STYLE STEEL is, as the name suggests, made of high-quality steel.

The advantages of the steel version compared to the aluminium version are obvious: this buckle can be used wherever components made of aluminium may not be used, such as for the use on respiratory protective equipment (EN 137).

Thanks to the reliable PRO STYLE locking mechanism and the high robustness of the steel buckle, it is ready for use in the harshest conditions. In addition, the COBRA® PRO STYLE STEEL is coated twice for the best protection possible: first zinc-coated and then ktl-coated. In combination with a fitting webbing, the buckle is guaranteed to hold 18 kN in loop configuration.
